

INDIGENOUS JUSTICE COMMITTEE

LAW GRADUATES & STUDENTS MENTORING PROGRAM - EXPRESSION OF INTEREST

THE PROGRAM

If you have graduated from law or are studying law and would like to talk to a barrister or Judge from time to time about your course or career, this program is for you. The program is open to any Indigenous-identifying lawyer or law student. You do not have to want to be a barrister (or Judge).

You will be connected with a barrister and a Judge who is interested in mentoring you and is practising in an area of law of interest to you.

You will then have access to them (and through them other persons) that you can talk with about your law course and your legal aspirations and goals. This may be over lunch or coffee, work experience or just by email. Contact between you and your mentors can be as little or as much as you decide between you.

If you are interested, please provide us with some brief details, below. We will only use the details to contact you about the mentoring program. Feel free to contact John Heard (see contact details below) if you have any queries about the program.
